

Depression title and opening image appears, camera to hone in on the image, skin fades to reveal the brain.

The appearance of the text on the screen is timed with the narration, so that when the first word is read, the first line appears. The boldfaced, enlarged words linger on the screen as the rest of the word fade. "numbness", "immense", and "solitude" are the last words to fade.

I could no longer concentrate... all sense of hope had vanished... Death was now a daily presence

"Hope had vanished" and "Death" lingers
